

Osgoode Hall Law School eJournal Legal Studies Research Paper Series, Legal Scholarship Network, SSRN

Submission Guidelines

Last updated: April 2019

Focus and Scope

With an impressive history of scholarship, Osgoode Hall Law School is regarded as one of the world's top law faculties for excellence in legal research. Osgoode is strongly connected to the legal profession, government and other law schools both nationally and internationally. With one of the largest full-time faculty complements of any Canadian law school, Osgoode is a hub of intellectual activity. Osgoode professors and students are active in taking their research out into the world, producing changes in law and public policy, and benefits to the local and broader community.

Submissions

Authors interested in submitting to the Osgoode Hall Law School Legal Studies Research Paper Series (OHLS - LSRPS) must send their papers to ssrn@osgoode.yorku.ca for qualification review and processing.

To qualify for submission, papers must be

- (a) submitted by eligible Osgoode groups (see Eligibility, below);
- (b) must have been produced within the past 12 months from the date of submission; and
- (c) authors must be the copyright holder of their papers or have permission from the publisher to redistribute.

Papers classified under the SSRN heading of "Osgoode Hall Law School Legal Studies Research Paper Series" without prior authorization from Osgoode Hall Law School and/or which have not been submitted to ssrn@osgoode.yorku.ca prior to publication to SSRN may be withdrawn from SSRN without notice.

Paper submissions that do not follow these submission guidelines may not be published. Manuscripts should be sent in one of the following formats: .docx, .doc., or .pdf.

Eligibility

OHLS - LSRPS accepts submissions from the following Osgoode groups:

- Full-time faculty (Osgoode Hall Law School)

- Faculty emeriti and senior scholars (Osgoode Hall Law School)
- Students enrolled in the Juris Doctor, Research LLM, or PhD in Law programs (Osgoode Hall Law School)

Papers submitted by the following Osgoode groups are ineligible for publication in the OHLS - LSRPS:

- Students enrolled in the Professional LLM program or in other Osgoode Professional Development courses
- Osgoode Professional Development instructors or faculty
- Osgoode alumni
- Osgoode visiting researchers and scholars
- Adjunct faculty

Authors affiliated with Osgoode clinics should contact ssrn@osgoode.yorku.ca first before submitting a paper for review.

Review Process

Osgoode Hall Law School - Legal Studies Research Paper Series

All OHLS – LSRPS eJournal issues are reviewed by the Editor in Chief. Papers published under the SSRN heading of OHLS - LSRPS are monitored by the Production Editor to ensure their authors are (1) affiliated with Osgoode Hall Law School and (2) authorized to publish (see Eligibility, above).

SSRN

A paper must be part of the worldwide scholarly discourse covered by one or more of SSRN's subject area networks to be eligible for inclusion and public display in SSRN's eLibrary. Every submitted paper is reviewed by SSRN staff to ensure that the paper is a part of the scholarly discourse in its subject area. SSRN does not provide peer review for papers in the eLibrary.

(https://www.ssrn.com/index.cfm/en/ssrn-faq/#paper_eligibility)

Open Access

SSRN is an open-access online preprint community providing valuable services to leading academic schools and government institutions and provides the online database of early scholarly research – a permanent and searchable online library – always available, worldwide.

(https://www.ssrn.com/index.cfm/en/ssrn-faq/#what_is)

Osgoode Hall Law School's Legal Studies Research Paper Series (OHLS – LSRPS), as part of SSRN's Legal Scholarship Network, provides immediate open access to its content on the principle that making research freely available to the public supports a greater global exchange of knowledge.

Publication Cycle

OHLS - LSRPS publishes monthly, or 12 issues per year beginning in April and ending in March.